City Council votes major funding for Arts Council

by Lisa Parsons

The Lemon Grove City Council was in a generous mood Monday night, voting to sell a fire truck to the Mt. Laguna Volunteer Fire Department for a nominal sum and allocating $10,000 for the Community Arts Advisory Council in their 1990-91 budget.

The $5.7 million budget for the fiscal year 1990-91 was tentatively approved by the council after changes were made that reflected the council's law enforcement concerns. The City contracts with the Sheriff's Department for law enforcement services and this years budget reflects an increase from $1.6 million to $1.7 million. The DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) Program's budgetary allotment was $30,000--designed to help teach school age children about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

The Lemon Grove Community Arts Advisory Council (CAAC) was also favored by the Council. In consideration of earlier discussions concerning the amount of money to be allotted to the CAAC, Staff had recommended to the Council that $5,000 was a sufficient amount of funding, despite the CAAC's request for $10,000. Councilman Robert Burns disagreed with Staff's recommendation stating, "I was impressed by the blizzard of letters we've gotten on this matter and their request represents less than one-tenth of one percent of the budget. I think we should go for the $10,000 to be paid on a quarterly basis. I think it is a worthwhile expenditure."

Councilman Brian Cochran agreed, "I think this is the one entity that really promotes Lemon Grove besides Old Time Days," he said. "We're probably the most frugal council in California and if you've convinced Dr. Burns, then you've convinced me."

The allocation will not be finalized until the council has had a chance to review the CAAC's fee schedule.

The council's generosity extended to the Mt. Laguna Volunteer Fire Department with the sale of the City's surplus 1960 Pirsch fire engine for $5,000. The Mt. Laguna Fire Department was required to make a down payment of $1,500, with the balance paid at the rate of $500 per year, with the payment forgiven in every year that the Volunteer Fire Department uses this apparatus for fire fighting purposes.

The Volunteer Fire Department hopes to put the truck in the North end of their coverage area, thus cutting their response time of 30 minutes in half. Representatives from the Volunteer Department assured the council that this truck would "definitely be a front line vehicle," as well as the newest "pumper" in the Department.

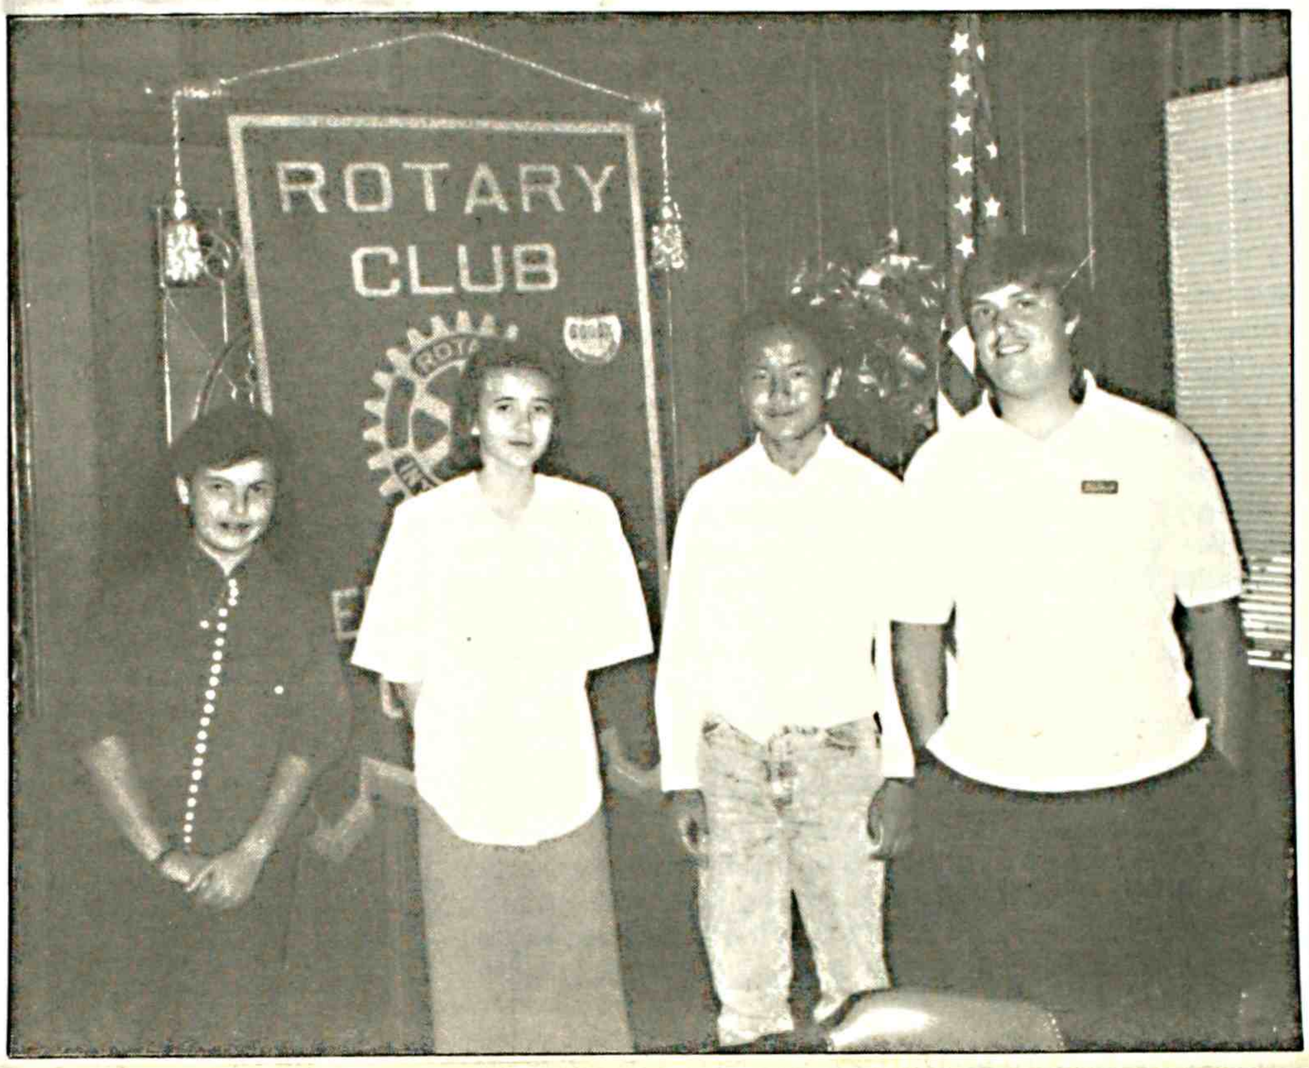
One of the excited volunteers said, "All I can say is 'Thank you' and 'Wahoo!'"

In other business the council:

* Authorized an increase in trash collection rates as a result of the County increasing disposal fees at the landfill by 33.3% (from $13.50 per ton to $18.00 per ton). The increase in dump fees equates to approximately $.65 on the monthly rate for residential service and the commercial rates will increase about 6%.

* Adopted a resolution increasing the sewer service charge from $120 per equivalent dwelling unit to $132 per equivalent dwelling unit per year. The increase will help cover the cost of replacing two major transmission lines over the next two to four years.

* Adopted a resolution decreasing the Lighting District Benefit fee from $13 to $6 per equivalent dwelling unit.



Nuray Satterlee, Elizabeth Douglass, Tri Quach and James Tessor received scholarships from the Lemon Grove Rotary towards further education.

Rotary honors local students

The Lemon Grove Rotary Club honored four local students at their Monday meeting.

Nuray Satterlee of Lemon Grove Middle School was presented with a $100 U.S. Treasury Bond for maintaining the highest academic standing in her school over the last three years. Her school's principal, Ron Clayton, said her grade point average was 3.94, which means she earned 62 "A's" in three years. Satterlee is also a member of the award winning Lemon Grove Middle School Band and will be attending Mt. Miguel in the fall.

Tri Quach, an 8th grader at Palm Middle School who will attend Mt. Miguel as well, achieved the highest standing at his school and received a $100 Bond. His principal, Barbara Allen, described him as a "Model student who overcame tremendous barriers."

Mt. Miguel Senior James Tessor received a $300 Automotive Technology Scholarship to Cuyamaca College and his classmate, Elizabeth Douglass, was awarded an equal Photojour-nalism Scholarship to Grossmont College.

The scholarships were given as part of the Rotary's Vocational Scholarship Program and will go towards the students college expenses.

New "Treasure" coming to Lemon Grove

by Max Goodwin

A popular pet and feed store owner has chosen Lemon Grove in a business expansion step.

Dale Kreinbring will open his Treasure Island Feed and Pets II at 7834 Lester Avenue in the spacious building that formerly housed the Lemon Grove Review newspaper operation. The newspaper's new home is now in the Barwick and Knowlton law office building at the corner of Lester and Grove.

Kreinbring plans to open Treasure Island next week--a Grand Opening celebration to be announced for a later date. The later opening will offer gifts and prizes.

A wing of the 3,000 sq. ft. facility will be a restful aquaria cove, where over 65 tanks will display more than 2000 species of freshwater fish. It will be open seven days a week for public viewing.

The aquaria is a unique showplace in a darkened room with fluorescent lights over each tank to enhance the brilliant colors of the fish.

The rest of the building houses a huge display of a wide variety of pets and pet needs. Birds, baby rabbits, chicks, ducks and reptiles (boa constrictors) are offered.

Kreinbring also operates two shops in a small center at the northwest corner of Sweetwater and Jamacha roads. There, one shop specializes in fish, the other offers pet food and pets.

"We chose Lemon Grove for expansion because many of our customers come from there. The new site is just a few steps from the trolley depot and that should encourage patronage of residents who are served by the trolley. This will be particularly helpful for shoppers who have no other mode of transportation.

"In addition to being a supplier of top quality products, we are also distributors of various pet items. Thus we are able to offer a wide selection of quality items at

County Social Services office opens

Lemon Grove has a new addition to the City, the County of San Diego Social Services Department located at 7065 Broadway.

The 40,000 square-foot facility, is the home of services such as; MediCal, Food Stamps, a General Relief Program and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

According to Assistant District Manager Yolanda Thomas, the facility was constructed in Lemon Grove because "We try to build an office where there seems to be a need. Our other offices were serving large amounts of people from Lemon Grove and Spring Valley, so we saw a need based on population."

The new facility will serve people only within certain Spring Valley and Lemon Grove zip codes and will handle a case load of between 6,000 to 8,000 people per month.

Also located at the site is the GAIN (Greater Avenues for Independence) Program. The GAIN program offers people on Welfare the opportunity to obtain their high school equivalency degrees, gives them job training and helps them find a job, so they will no longer be dependent on Welfare. "It's the first time we've been co-located in one facility and it's working very well," said Thomas.

City of Lemon Grove Staff profiles

Finance Director/City Clerk Karen Huff, an accountant by trade, has seen a lot of changes in her 13 years with the City of Lemon Grove, saying, "It's been fun and I've enjoyed being a part of the differences."

Karen Huff

Huff was in on the ground floor of the changes in Lemon Grove as the Chairman of the Incorporation Committee. She said the biggest difference in Lemon Grove since incorporation has been the physical appearance of the City, and she should know - she's been an on-and-off resident of Lemon Grove since she was in the sixth grade.

Her father, a math teacher, moved Huff's family from Holdenville, Oklahoma to Lemon Grove in 1949, where he built the family home by himself. Huff went through the Lemon Grove School District, graduating from Helix High School. She then attended San Diego State University and the University of Oklahoma. She met and married her first husband, moving around California for the next few years, including a stint at Berkeley in the 60s. Eventually Huff returned to Lemon Grove, bought a home and raised her two sons - Kirk Thomson, who is now a Deputy Sheriff in Imperial Beach, and Steven Thomson, who is a school teacher with the Cajon-Valley School District.

Huff said helping to set up a City was an exciting time because, "No one ever said, 'We've always done it like this.' Things could be done because the honeymoon was on, and the strange thing is, the honeymoon is still on.

"Things are looking up in Lemon Grove and people are a little bit prouder of their City," Huff said, crediting "some really good people on the council," with the City's progress.

A strong advocate of public transportation, Huff said, "The Trolley has been, and will continue to be, good for Lemon Grove." She rides buses and the trolley to work every day from her home in Coronado. "Somebody has to take public transportation and I enjoy it. I end up walking two miles a day, so it also forces me to get some exercise."

In her free time, Huff likes to fish with her husband of a year-and-a-half, Dick Huff, and travel. She said she hopes to move to their condominium in Hawaii within the next few years because she enjoys the slower pace of the island.

Her other interests include volunteering for the political campaigns of her friends and the Honorary Deputy Sheriff's Association.

Lemon Grove couple readying for second Great Race test of precision and endurance

Competing in The Interstate Batteries Great American Race is a family affair for Lemon Grove husband-wife team Leonard and Gloria Harpenau with their crew Jerry Harpenau, their son, Christine Jones, their daughter and Dan Ciolfe, also of Lemon Grove. Last year they were rookies in a handsome 1936 Buick sedan finishing all 11 days of racing, something that rookies usually don't achieve.

They are back for year number two, determined to not only finish every day but to finish up in the higher echelons of Greatracers. The Harpenaus are among San Diego entrants in The Great Race which comes calling to Seaport Village July 5th.

They will be among 120 antique car teams competing for a $250,000 purse in the 8th Annual Great American Race starting Sunday, June 24th at The Buick Golf Classic, Westchester (NY) Country Club and finishing 13 days, 13 states and 4,000 miles later at Disneyland Park, Anaheim, California Friday, July 6th.

This year's cross country classic makes over 40 stops for food, fuel and forty winks in such cities as Scranton, Pa, Rochester, NY, London, Ont., Can., Flint, MI, Milwaukee, WI, Davenport and Des Moines, IA, Lincoln and Grand Island, NE, Metro North Denver and Glenwood Springs, CO, Moab, UT, Farmington, NM, Phoenix, AZ and San Diego. As many as 100,000 have turned out for the race in cities such as these.

Aristocratic oldsters like Rolls Royce, Bugatti, Bentley, Renault, Jaguar, Aston-Martin, BMW, Cadillac, Chrysler and Lincoln compete with long gone classics as Pierce Arrow, Lasalle, Haynes, Parkard, REO and Locomobile alongside of Buick, Oldsmobile, Dodge, DeSoto, Plymouth and Ford. There are 39 different marques in this year's IBGAR, chasing a $250,000 purse while competing in a lifetime's automobile adventure.

Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse and a character cavalcade plus the United States Navy Ceremonial band will also entertain at noontime and overnight stops.

The Great American Race is a contest of precision-driving, controlled-speed and endurance. Contestants follow detailed course instructions that include numerous daily changes in speed and direction. Racers attempt to pass secret checkpoints at times pre-determined by computer and known only by officials. Each second off this challenging schedule is a penalty point. As in golf, low score wins.

Base ball growing pains

The Padres changed owners last week when major-league baseball moguls welcomed a group of San Diego and Los Angeles businessmen, headed by television producer Tom Werner, into the fold in place of Joan Kroc, who seeks a quieter life.

That's headline stuff in San Diego, but it wasn't the major story coming out of the owner's meetings in Cleveland.

Up in the Bay Area, everybody was talking about moving the Giants form windy and storm racked Candlestick Park to a new facility to be constructed in Santa Clara.

A pair of major league stories coming out of a routine summer meeting is above par for the generally foot dragging owners, but neither the San Diego ownership change, nor the Giant's change of address grabbed the spotlight.

Headlines in most major sized cities in the U.S. covered the owner's actions with a single word.

"Expansion!"

The promise of great enrichment has finally completed the journey from hope to reality.

The National League is going to expand by adding two teams on a scheduled that will have them begin play in 1993 and the race is on to see which cities are to be warded the franchises.

The cost is going to be considerable, but there is no shortage of applicants. This is serious stuff and presentations by the contending cities have been developed by high priced political advisors who have been at work for years.

These are the folks who put politicians into the White House.

Some groups will join the throng of franchise hunters just to have a track record for the next expansion, due sometime after the turn of the century.

The National League expansion committee has already begun the long and arduous selection process and their schedule calls for their presentation of recommendations at next summer's major league meetings.

The top contenders seem to be St. Petersburg-Tampa, Miami, Denver, Phoenix, Indianapolis and Buffalo.

The franchises will be awarded to business groups, of course, but the citizens of each contending city will play a part in the drama of selection.

None of the contending cities have a major league baseball playing facility and, for one reason or another, each will have to consider the cost of building a domed stadium.

Summer heat and humidity are serious problems in Tampa-St. Pete, Miami, Indianapolis, Buffalo and Phoenix. Late spring and early fall snow storms are part of life, as it's lived, in Denver and Buffalo.

Business groups will fund the franchise fees, reported to be in the $50 million neighborhood, but local citizens will have to vote in favor of bond issues for communities to undertake the cost of building weather controlled domed stadiums.

That puts Buffalo in a class by itself. Folks along the Niagara Frontier have supported the class AAA Buffalo Bisons with more than a million in attendance each of the last two years. And that's not counting "would be" crowds that were rained out or snowed in. The expansion derby is gonna be fun to watch.

Commentary

On flags and fathers

by Paul Treske

Both Flag Day and Father's Day were celebrated during the past week and each raises an interesting question or two.

The recent Supreme Court ruling on flag burning has sent our President and a good portion of Congress into a tizzy. With national elections just a few months away, a foolproof issue has been placed on the table. The President, who certainly didn't lose any votes in 1988 when he skillfully wrapped himself in the flag, now states that flag burning "endangers the fabric of our country." Senator Dole warns election retribution for those opposing a constitutional amendment banning the desecration of the flag.

The burning or desecration of the American flag is, to most of us, a repugnant and emotionally loathsome act. But it is not endangering the fabric of our country. Racism, bigotry, homelessness, government fraud and inadequate education are endangering the fabric of our country. The flag is a beloved symbol, one that makes our hearts leap when shown proudly in foreign lands or flown freely over our national institutions. But more intrinsic to that "fabric" of our nation is a Bill of Rights that guarantees our right to protest without risk or jeopardy.

Responding to Senator Dole's threats, North Carolina Senator Terry Sanford recently said it best when he said that as a paratrooper in World War II he had "jumped into combat with the flag on my left shoulder to help preserve the freedoms in the Bill of Rights. Now you ask me to damage that document in the name of political expediency so that somebody won't run a 30-second ad against me? Nothing doing."

On a lighter note, Father's Day and attitudes toward fathers have always rankled this writer a bit. As a rule, dads work hard, struggle against the tribulations of life, do their best by their kids and show at least some wisdom and foresight along the way. But from watching the movies and TV you would never know it. Ever since "The Life of Reilly" in the 50's, dads have been almost universally shown as clod-like, witless boobs whose wives and children tolerate them, outsmart them and keep the family functioning despite them. With the notable exceptions of Jim Anderson and Cliff Huxtable, who are unreal in the opposite direction, fathers usually "just don't understand" according to their offspring. All too frequently also, the father is portrayed as brutal, unfeeling and abusive.

Of course with most movies and TV shows geared for preteens and teens, good old dad is a natural target, what with teenage rebellion and the like. But there must be other ways to secure a little video humor besides at dad's expense.

One more thought to share on Father's Day: has anyone else noticed that the newspaper ads for Father's Day gifts all portray dads as between 18 and 21 years of age? There must be artwork somewhere in their files showing an older, 30 to 40-year-old father!

From Where I Sit

Who sets our time?

by Frank Andrews

When I was about five-years-old my dad brought home a brindle bull puppy for me. That wonderful, faithful animal was to be my constant, loving companion for the next 15 years.

I named him Sockie after a character in one of the then popular kid's radio shows. The first thing my dad did was to lop off the poor little guy's tail. I guess it was the vogue thing in those days to have a dog with a bobbed tail. Chic or not, I can still remember that goring incident.

Because I was an only child and the fact that my father was in the illegal liquor business, having my playmates at our house was taboo. Sockie became my much needed and longed for brother. He and I were inseparable. All I would have to say was, "Sic Um" and he would take on all comers if he thought that they were out to harm me.

He tried his feistiness out on a huge woodchuck and nearly lost the battle. We had to have the vet stitch up his neck to save him. Neither rain, sleet, or snow could discourage Sockie from his many long vigils, waiting for me in sub-zero weather.

My mother made a canvas harness for him to pull me and my "Flexible Flyer" sled to near victory in a local dog sled race. That dog was built like a huskie and could compete with the biggest and best of them.

His only dog-like fault was his natural instinct to chase the lady dogs and be gone for a couple days. He would always return - usually hungry, tattered, and torn.

While fishing out in our boat the "ding-a-ling" friend that was with me cast out and hooked Sockie in the eye with his lure. Poor old dog was just resting in the back seat as per usual. I paddled the boat as fast as a "Johnson 10" to get us to shore as fast as possible. With the aid of a pair of side cutters I was able to remove the barbed hook from his eye lid without any harm to my dog.

Old Sockie was so smart and patient with me - he would sit still for me to dress him up in overalls, corncob pipe, sunglasses, cap, and stand on the rungs of a stepladder for my picture taking. I still have some of those old, beloved photos.

Sockie lived long enough to spend his last couple of years with my bride and me. He learned to love her as much as me. That dreaded day finally came when I had to take Sockie, my brother, to the vet's to have him put to sleep. That was one of my saddest days.

My beloved family of 4 kids has had many puppies and pets since Sockie, but of course, none of them could ever measure up. I really can't imagine growing up without that most-faithful companion.

I do believe that God made dogs just for little boys and no lad should grow up without one.

Old Globe to present varied fare

Young love in 17th century England, a controversial baseball legend and two men struggling with their personal lives are subjects of the first three plays in a six-play cycle during the Old Globe Theatre's festival '90.

The 41st Festival season opens June 22 and concludes October 21 at the three theatres of the Simon Edison Centre for the Performing Arts in Balboa Park--The Old Globe, Cassius Carter Centre Stage and Lowell Davies Festival Theatre.

Artistic Director Jack O'Brien has scheduled a stimulating mix of classical and contemporary plays with a focus on Shakespeare blended with new works.

With the Old Globe Theatre's history of four decades of producing works by William Shakespeare in San Diego, O'Brien selected the romantic comedy "As You Like It" and the tragedy "Hamlet" to be staged this summer. "As You Like It" was most recently presented as the inaugural play of the new Old Globe in 1982. "Hamlet" was last seen at the Old globe in 1977 under O'Brien's direction.

"As You Like It," one of Shakespeare's most endearing tales, focuses on two young people of noble blood who discover each other and romance in the Forest of Arden.

The production is directed by Julianne Boyd in the Lowell Davies Festival Theatre. She recently directed "A....My Name is Alice" and "Tea" for the Old Globe.

Previews begin June 17 with the opening June 22. Performances continue at 8:30 p.m. nightly except Monday through July 29.

Concurrently with "As you Like It" will be the west coast premiere of "Cobb" in the Old Globe. The legendary Ty Cobb was the first selection in the Baseball Hall of Fame for his on-the-field accomplishments. Playwright Lee Blessing explores the character and actions of the controversial athlete whose playing career was from 1906 to 1928.

The Yale Repertory Theatre production of "Cobb" is directed by Artistic Director Lloyd Richards. Underwriting for the Old Globe presentation is by AT&T, TWA and Y-95FM.

Performances of "Cobb" are June 28 through August 5 nightly except Monday at 8 p.m. plus frequent Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. Previews begin June 21st.

The world premiere of "White Man Dancing" will be produced opening July 3 in the Cassius Carter Centre Stage.

Stephen Metcalfe's comedy-drama concerns two men striving to restore their former friendship and resolve their individual personal turmoil.

An Associate Artist of the Old Globe, Metcalfe's earlier plays include "Strange Snow," "Vikings," "Emily," "The Incredibly Famous Willy Rivers" and "White Linen," all produced by the Old Globe.

Previews of "White Man Dancing" begin June 29th with performances through August 19th at 8 p.m. nightly except Monday. Frequent matinees are scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Director Thomas Allan Bullard previously directed Old globe productions of "Benefactors" and "The Voice of the Prairie."

Late summer openings for Festival '90 include Thornton Wilder's American masterpiece "Our Town," Shakespeare's "Hamlet" and the intimate musical "Heartbeats.".

"Our Town" opens August 24th in the Lowell Davies Festival Theatre with performances at 8 p.m. nightly except Monday through September 30th. Previews begin August 19th.

O'Brien will direct "Hamlet" in the Old Globe Theatre opening August 30th with performances through October 7 at 8 p.m. nightly except Monday plus frequent Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. Previews begin August 25th.

Love and marriage are the subject of the musical "Heartbeats" by Amanda McBroom. Bill Castellino will direct the show in the Cassius Carter Center Centre Stage opening September 5th. Performances are scheduled through October 21st at 8 p.m nightly (except Monday) plus frequent Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. Previews begin August 30th.

Jazz Band to present New Orleans sound

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band will bring their brand of Jazz to the East County Performing Arts Center Saturday, June 23. With a sound that runs the gamut of sweet-sad-gentle and exuberant, the Preservation Hall Jazz Band is an eclectic ensemble that promises a good time for all.

Their sound is New Orleans at its heart; all gumbo and Cayenne pepper, hot and spicy, the sound begs you to get up and dance. This seven piece group can swing with the best and features Percy and Willie Humphrey as well as renown pianist James Edward "Sing" Miller.

So if you love New Orleans with all its spice, save June 23rd, at 7:00 o'clock. Summer foods will be on sale outdoors starting at 6:00 p.m. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets and at the ECPAC Box Office. Prices ar $18 for students and seniors, adults are $20.

generally lower prices," he said.

He said that the large inventory would include vaccines, Science Diet Dog food, and IAMS Dog Food. The store will also carry Le Mar Aquariums, Award-winning all-purpose cages and fish-pond equipment.

He said his firm is the district representative for Kruses's Perfection Animal Feeds.

"Our employees are professionals," he said. "All of them know their crafts."

"Every three weeks our staff attends seminars given by our suppliers. At work they are required to pass their knowledge on to shoppers. They give no simple 'yes' and 'no' answers. Their replies are backed with information important to pet lovers. In addition to this, our firm's motto is 'service.' And our people live up to that motto," Kreinbring explained.

Kreinbring is a graduate of Hilltop High School (1984). He became interested in pets as a business while his parents operated a wholesale dairy with such clients as Carnation and Dairy-Mart.

Growing population closed in on south bay dairies and a few years ago it closed the Kreinbring dairy.

But young Kreinbring's admiration for animals persisted. He opened first his pet food and pet shop to serve the Spring Valley and Bonita areas. He was a good businessman and his products were reliable. He prospered.

Later he acquired the fish store. From his base at the Sweetwater-Jamacha Road location he has seen the need for expansion and felt that now the time is right. Kreinbring will continue to operate the Spring Valley stores.

The Lemon Grove store will be operated the same as his others. Top service, professional employees, quality merchandise and a seven-days-a-week, 8 a.m.-9 p.m. pet convenience center.

Clapham - Schoonover wed

Barbara Clapham and Frank Schoonover were married April 21 at St. John of the Cross Catholic Church.

The bride graduated from Helix High School and is employed at Vanier Graphics Corporation in Santee. She is the daughter of Marge and Lee Clapham of Lemon Grove.

The bridegroom, an Aviation Electrician at North Island Naval Air Station, is the son of Hilde and Frank Schoonover of Spokane, Washington.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Hawaii. They will be transferred to Pensacola, Florida in July.

Local youths flip for gymnastics

by Tim Boice

Little League baseball is in full swing, youth soccer is just around the corner, and Pop Warner football sign ups will begin later this year, but one sport that goes on year round, and isn't often thought of with the aforementioned is gymnastics.

Six local boys are involved in the sport and sharpen their skills at Gymnastacenter in Mira Mesa.

Chris Arana of Lemon Grove is the secretary of the gym's parent organization and says her son Danny has flipped for the sport, "He played soccer, baseball, and all the regular ones, but he was very athletic-doing flips in the backyard-that we wanted to channel it somewhere and gymnastics was the first thing we could think of."

Anthony Gostanian's mother Marilouise says he got started by tumbling all around the house, "down the hallway and even down the staircase."

Both parents and boys note it's not all fun and games. It requires a great deal of discipline and an average of three hours of practice a day, five days a week.

"It disciplines me and I've become attached to it. When I learn a new skill I feel like I've accomplished something," said the 10-year-old Gostanian.

He has been competing since the age of six and has placed first in the state on the rings. Recently he competed in the regional meet in Tucson, Arizona and finished 16th out of 53 gymnasts in his class.

The boys compete in the vault, pommel horse, rings, parallel bars, and floor exercise. Arana says he enjoys the challenge, "I like the challenge because you have to work hard to get better. There are better kids at the gym than me, but I try and push to get better than them so I have to work harder."

Competitions take place from January to June throughout California, Arizona and Nevada.

Despite the extra effort and time commitments, the parents feel it's paid off in other areas, "Anthony is small in stature. For him it's important because it increases his self-confidence," said his mother.

Arana says, "Danny's done great, but the best thing we've gotten out of it is he's made some fabulous friendships. He's totally dedicated to something, and maybe this will help him get a scholarship to college."

Other area gymnasts are Brian Sano, Eric Ford, Garrett Donahue, and Danny Hopp.

Witnesses to convene

Nearly 1,000 Witnesses from the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley congregations are attending the "Pure Language" district Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses being held Thursday through Sunday, at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium.

More than 100 congregations of Witnesses from Southern California and Western Arizona are involved in this four-day rally which is just one of 142 conventions being staged this summer throughout the U.S.

Over 25,000 are expected in San Diego and nearly 1,500,000 all over the nation. The convention program will be presented only in English at the stadium, but in other centers it will be given in Spanish, Chinese, French, Greek, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Portuguese and sign language.

Spanish Witnesses in this area and all of Southern California will assemble during July in Dodger Stadium, Los Angeles in one of two large conventions. The same stadium is being used for two English-only conferences.

Saturday's program includes a baptism ceremony for an expected 200 new ministers who will symbolize their previously-made, personal dedication to their God, Jehovah.

The highlight of the convention will be the public address, "Become United by the Pure Language," to be given Sunday at 2 p.m. by D. J. Thomas, a circuit minister of the Witnesses. The public is invited and all seats are free and no collection is taken.

Antique specialists appraise heirlooms

San Diegans are invited to bring their family heirlooms, collectibles, and other personal treasures to the San Diego Natural History Museum on Friday, June 22 from 10 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m.

Antique specialists from Butterfield and Butterfield, the San Francisco-based auction house will appraise items brought to the museum. Categories for appraisal include paintings, prints, jewelry, and oriental objects of art. Also furniture, rugs, decorative arts, and silver will be appraised from photos and dimensions only.

"This is the second year we've held this very popular event," said Emily Lee, Treasure Day chairman. Participants will be able to see the Museum's collections and exhibits at no additional charge.

Cost for appraisal is $10 for the first item and $5 for each additional item. Proceeds will benefit the Museum's educational programs.
